Welcome to the Monthly eNewsletter from NCCCLA!

This email contains news from NCCCLA members and partners, news items of interest about U.S. community colleges, and upcoming events.

A Note from Our President

Greetings, NCCCLA members!

I hope this message finds you all doing well and off to a great fall semester! It's great to know that our location and dates have been secured for the 2018 NCCCLA Conference at Randolph Community College in Asheboro, NC on Thursday-Friday, March 8-9. A special thank you to Cheryl Ann Coyle for making the site visit and to Debbie Luck at Randolph for graciously agreeing to host the conference. Be sure to read Cheryl's description and update in this issue of the newsletter. It's exciting news and will undoubtedly be a great conference!

One of the many benefits of being a member of NCCCLA is the opportunity for free professional development. I am excited to announce that we will be hosting a WebEx webinar on Wednesday, October 4 at 2:00 p.m. Garrison Libby, Reference Librarian from Tidewater Community College, VA, will be doing a repeat presentation from the 2017 NCCCLA Conference on "Getting Started with OER and Textbook Affordability".

Please see the description below:

As textbook prices continue to rise, many institutions are looking to alternatives to keep costs down for students. One such alternative that is growing in popularity is Open Educational Resources (OER) -- openly licensed material that can be revised, reused, and remixed. This session will introduce the basics of OER and open licensing, and discuss the role librarians can play in fostering and promoting OER adoption on campus.

I hope many of you will be able to attend Garrison's webinar on October 4. Please look for future emails regarding registration. In the meantime, if you know you would like to attend please send me an email indicating your interest at goodmans@coastalcarolina.edu

The next Executive Board Meeting will be on Thursday, September 21 at 1:00 p.m. There will be lots of "good stuff" to report in the next newsletter!

My best to everyone,

Sally

Departures

Kory Paulus, (secretary for district 5) has left Central Piedmont CC for Wingate University. Some parting words....

"It is with great sadness that I share that I will no longer be within the community college system. I have accepted a new position with Wingate University as one of their Reference and Instruction Librarians as their Nursing and Biology Liaison. I will truly miss all of my community college friends and colleagues. Please keep in touch! Here is my new email address: k.paulus@wingate.edu I am still available to answer any questions related to Evidence-Based Practice/Research! Thank you all for the warm and fuzzy welcome to the community college system and everything I have learned from all of you the past 4 years!"

Sincerely,

Kory Paulus

Retirements

Sharon Smith, Library Director, McDowell Technical CC retires September 1st.

Marketing & Outreach

Submitted by Samantha O'Connor, Public Services Librarian, Central Carolina CC

"I would like to invite you to complete a brief survey which seeks to gather information about community college librarians' perceptions of patron access and barriers to library use. It would help me immensely if you could take a few minutes to fill out the survey here:

https://qtrial2017q2az1.az1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_9Aj7SIjhSTxa6aN

Responses will be used to inform a study on community college student barriers to library use, both online and in the physical library space. The survey will remain open until September 29th. It is voluntary and anonymous."

News from the Field - Highlights from District 4

Submitted by Samantha O'Connor - District 4 Director

District 4 met on June 20th at Brunswick Community College. Nora Burmeister of Central Carolina Community College presented on developing privacy policies in academic libraries and we engaged in a very lively discussion afterwards.

Weeding was the project of the summer for most of our district libraries and we discussed plans for discarding weeded materials. Cape Fear Community College has been working hard to ensure all their discarded materials are sent to be recycled. Other libraries have been using book sales to move out weeded materials. A staff member from Brunswick Community College showed off her Pinterest skills with some crafty table decorations made from weeded books that brightened up our lunch.

Events and Professional Development

"Introduction to Instructional Design for Libraries" eCourse

ALA/RUSA - September 11, 2017 to October 20, 2017

In this course, students will learn to use the Instructional Design Process and apply it effectively to library instruction which includes: identifying instructional problems, learner analysis, task analysis, defining instructional objectives, sequencing content, identifying instructional strategies, message design, instructional delivery and evaluation instruments.

Trending this month - Chat Reference Services*

LibraryH3lp is very inexpensive. There is an unlimited number of queues, so the library could have one, and the writing center could have one, etc. Widgets can be embedded into Libguides, library databases, and within Canvas. It produces an FAQ also that is very handy to use.

Zendesk Chat (formerly Zopim) - can be placed into Moodle, on the library website and even inside EBSCOhost databases. It's a seamless and free way to chat with students at the point of need. Upgraded packages can be purchased.

*Zoom (not cited on the CJCLS Listserv) is a conference and chat service platform used by the NCCCLA Conference planning committee with great success. For more details, please contact Cheryl Ann Coyle, CPCC or Catherine Tingelstad, WTCC.

NCCCLA 2017 Conference Highlights

Engaging Generation Z: High School Students in Community College Libraries

Presenters: Mary Anne Caudle, Saundra Pinkham, Millie Sparks, Catherine Tingelstad, and Christine Vasica

If your library has begun serving students in Early College or another high school program, you might ask yourself, "What now?" In this session, panelists from the five community college libraries discussed topics including collection development, book clubs and other programming, outreach and instruction for teens and teachers, and policies and procedures to make library services and spaces work for everyone.

NCCCLA Conference 2018 News!

Submitted by Cheryl Ann Coyle, CPCC, NCCCLA Conference Committee Chair

We are excited to announce that the 2018 NCCCLA Conference will be held at Randolph Community College in Asheboro, NC on Thursday, March 8th and Friday, March 9th, 2018. The Committee has been hard at work and our first big item has been checked off the list. We are thrilled to announce that the 2018 NCCCLA Conference will be held in beautiful Randolph County!

Randolph Community College is located in the center of Randolph County, in close proximity to the Asheboro Zoo. The library is nestled within walking distance to the Conference Center that we will be using for the event, which is also located on the community college property. The beautiful landscaping and exquisite conference site will be a warm and welcoming place for us. We will have spaces to greet the familiar faces, welcome our friends and chat with vendors. The classrooms are spacious and can easily accommodate us. For those who are mindful of the environment, we would like to note that the Conference Center is a LEED certified building.

You will be hearing more from us soon! There are still a lot of plans to make and we can't wait to see what the presentation proposals will bring us this year!
